

This simple script will help you share the work of the Alliance for Children Foundation, the reasons you're getting involved, and how the audience can help support children in need.

Poverty, hunger, homelessness, illness and fear affect orphaned children every day. The Alliance for Children Foundation works to transform their lives by providing shelter, food, nurturing staff or foster parents, medical care, educational opportunities, and vocational training.

As a small, independent aid organization, they work on a personal level, providing support directly to meet the needs of these special kids.

- In Haiti, they've built a home for 65 orphaned children, and established a community center for educational programs, vocational training and medical care
- In China, they partner with the government to create foster care in their Sunbeam Villages
- In Colombia, they sponsor preschool and kindergarten education and a nutrition program
- In Russia, they provide medical care and rehabilitation facilities for orphaned children, and they have just completed their fifth orphanage playground
- In Taiwan, they support a local orphanage with medical supplies, clothing, equipment and food
- In the US, they subsidize adoption fees and encourage adoption of older and special needs children
- In Vietnam, they've established the An Hoa Center, a day program and school for impoverished children with mental disabilities.

All of these programs started when one person decided to make a difference and asked others to help.
